Fostering human resources who will lead the world by bridging culture and diversity

Research and Development Initiative

Research and development of a human resource nurturing program that can create new business standards through a study on the connection between Japanese culture and Islamic culture (the culture of Muslims in Turkey and Indonesia, in particular, which have deep ties with Japan) with consideration of the fact that Islamic culture forms major global trends together with Western culture.

- Developing the power to comprehend Islamic culture and society from each individual's own viewpoint by discarding ready-made ideas about Islam.
- Developing the power to build a future of mutual trust by studying the process of historical, cultural, and social ties that Japan has cultivated with Islamic countries.
- Developing the power to create an Islamic business model that will hold a key to Japan's economic recovery by constructing a new paradigm beyond global standards centered in Western Europe.

Cooperation with entities, including universities, enterprises, JICA, and NPOs.
